JACOB PERKINS,

HAVING invented an effectual check for detecting counterfeit Bank Paper, which has received the sanction of one Bank, and the approbation of the undersigned eminent artists, and having obtained a patent, securing to him, and to his assigns, the exclusive right of the invention, hereby offers to his fellow citizens the privilege of using it upon terms, to be agreed on between him and any person disposed to avail themselves of a guard against counterfeits.

THE undersigned having examined Jacob Perkin's new invented method to detect counterfeit Bank paper, do approve of the plan, it being impossible to engrave or sink two plates perfectly alike, without the original die or hub, the counterfeiter would find it impossible to make an impression which would perfectly gage with the check from the original die.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the Subscriber, on Tuesday the second of this inst. April, living in Kent county, Maryland, near Chester Town, the following described Negroes, viz. William, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, a yellowish complexioned fellow, about thirty years of age, formerly the property of doctor William Matthews, he has been very much given to running away, and has been so often described in the public papers within this twelve months that any further description of him seems needless.—Jacob, about 6 feet high, and about 32 years of age, of a common Negroe complection, down look, his little finger of his left hand stands straight, occasioned by the cut of a sickle. Patt, the wife of said Jacob, about 27 years of age, a small light made woman of a yellowish complection, with thick lips for an American of her stature, she is a very good needle woman, and spins on either small or great wheel, and is very handy in any common house work.—Two children of the said Jacob's and Patt's, the one a male child about four years old, the other a female child about two years old. The above described Negroes took with them, besides their own wearing apparel, three coats, two of which were linsey cloth of a light grey color, both new; one of the two was a great deal too large for either of the said fellows; the other coat of brown cloth, half worn; three under jackets, one a velvet, another a drab, the other a light colored linsey cloth do, one new pair of Calf skin shoes, lined with linnen and bound with leather, one pair of boots remarkably large in the legs, several pairs of stockings and a silver watch, all stolen: their own wearing apparel as follows—William had on a light-horse regimental coat worked with silver twist, (which coat he had when he was brought home to me the first of February last, a round sailor jacket (blue,) thickset breeches, patched with corduroy in the stride, with other necessary cloathing. Jacob, two linsey cloth coatees, lead colored, one new the other half worn, blue linsey cloth jacket, half worn, two pairs of linsey cloth trowsers, of a lead colour, the one new the other half worn, tolerable good shoes and stockings. Patt has every day cloathing, and her children wore home-made linen and linsey, her other cloathing not so well known; it is uncertain which course they may take, as William is such an experienced coaster.

Any person or persons apprehending said negroes or sounding them, so that their master may get them again, shall be entitled to the above reward, or in proportion for either of them, that is to say, 40 dollars for each of the fellows, and twenty dollars for the wench and children, and if brought home, all reasonable charges paid by

BENSON GEARS.

N. B.—All masters of vessels and others, are forbid harboring them at their peril. B. G.

PROPOSALS,

BY THE

Insurance Company of North America.

For INSURANCE against FIRE, on Dwelling-Houses, Ware-Houses, and other Buildings (and on Goods contained in such Buildings) distant from Philadelphia, in the United States.

I. Common Insurances, on hazards of the first class, will be undertaken at a premium of about half per cent. per annum. For extra hazardous risques a larger premium will be required, which will vary according to circumstances, seldom exceeding one per cent. per annum; but in some instances, where the property insured is not only in itself extra hazardous, but rendered still more so by the vicinity of extra hazardous buildings and occupations, the premium demanded will be raised according to circumstances.

Houses and Ware-Houses, the walls and partitions of which are wholly of stone or brick, well constructed, so as to be guarded as well as may be against fires from within, and free from extra hazardous buildings and occupations in their neighborhood, will be deemed hazardous of the first class, and may be insured to their full value.

Also Goods and Merchandize, not of an extra hazardous kind, in casks, bales, or packages, deposited in such buildings, to an amount not exceeding 4000 dollars; but if more than this sum is required to be insured in one tenement, an additional premium will be required, in proportion to circumstances.

II. Insurances will also be made on buildings and goods extra hazardous, at premiums proportioned to the risque. But it is not easy to arrange these under particular heads or classes, so as to describe each with the necessary accuracy. Each case must therefore be decided upon according to the circumstances attending it; and these circumstances will, in general, appear from the description accompanying the application.

Buildings partly constructed of brick or stone, are preferable to those wholly wooden. And in both cases, the stile of building, how they are occupied, how they are situated, the neighboring buildings, and how occupied, are considerations to be taken into view. And with respect to goods, their tendency, whether from their nature, or from the manner in which they are exposed, either to commence or to increase an accidental fire, and their liability in such state to receive damage by wet, or by sudden and hasty removal, or to be stolen in time of confusion and hurry, are all circumstances of weight; and the premiums must be proportioned accordingly.

III. The following conditiont are to be understood by the parties.

1st. The insurance is not binding till the stipulated premium be paid; but it shall be deemed effectual from the time of such payment and acceptance thereof, whether the policy be immediately signed or not.

2d. Insurances may be renewed at the expiration of the term of the policy, without further expenses than the payment of the premium of the renewed term, the circumstances continuing the same as they were understood by the Insurers at the time the former insurance was made; but the payment of the premium is essential to such renewal; and if the party insured suffers any time to elapse after the expiration of the former insurance, before he pays a premium for the renewal, he is not insured during such time; nor can the insurance be renewed on the former policy but by computing the commencement of the renewal from the expiration of the former insurance. The subject of insurance may nevertheless be open to treaty for a new insurance.

3d. If any other insurance be made on the same property; it must be made known at the time of application, otherwise the policy made on such application will be void.

4th Goods held in trust, or on consignment, may be insured as such in a separate policy; but they are not to be considered as insured otherwise.

5th. This company will not be liable or accountable for any loss or damage occasioned by any foreign invasion, or by any military or usurped force or by reason of any civil commotion; or occasioned by gunpowder, aquafortis or other thing of the like kind kept in the building, or amongst the property insured.

6th. Bills of Exchange, Bonds and other Securities, Title Deeds, Money, Bank and other promissory Notes, are not included in any insurance; nor are paintings, medals, jewels, gems, antique curiosities, or mirrors exceeding the value of twenty-five dollars each, to be considered as insured unless particularly mentioned and by special agreement.

7th. No insurance will be made for a shorter term than one year, nor for a longer term than seven years. Persons choosing to insure for seven years shall be allowed one year's premium by way of discount: One third of a years premium shall be abated in like manner on an insurance for three years.

8th. Losses sustained by fire on property insured, shall be paid in thirty days after due proof and liquidation thereof, without deduction.

IV. A description of the property to be insured will be expected with each application, to be made by a master carpenter and signed by him, as well as by the owner of the building or applicant for insurance, and attested before a Notary or principal Magistrate, who will certify his knowledge of the parties and their credibility.

With respect to Houses and other Buildings.

1st. The site and position; describing the street or road on or near which the building stands; its contiguity to water, and other circumstances relative to the extinguishment of fire in case of accident; and particularly whether any and what fire companies are established, and engines provided, in the place or neighbourhood.

2d. The materials of which it is built, whether of brick, stone or wood, and what part of each, as well as to the outside walls as inside or partition walls, and their respective height and thickness; the style of the roof and of what materials; how secured by battlements or party walls; what kind of access to the top of the house and to the chimnies; whether any and what electric rods; the number and kind of fire places; and the kind of deposit for ashes.

3d. The dimensions of the building and how divided, and the style in which it is finished so as to enable indifferent persons to judge in what manner it is to be repaired or rebuilt in case of injury; the age and condition of the building, and how occupied, whether merely as a dwelling house, or for any other, and for what purpose; also an estimate of the value of the house or building independent of the ground.

4th. The situation with respect to other buildings or back buildings, whether adjoining or not, comprehending at least one hundred feet each way; what kind of buildings are within that distance, how built, of what materials, and how occupied or improved, whether as dwellings for private families or otherwise: whether any and what trade or manufactory is carried on, and particularly whether there be any extra hazardous articles used or usually deposited in the house, or within the distance aforesaid, and of what kind.

Respecting goods in Houses, Warehouses, &c.

1. A general description of the building in which they are kept will be expected, similar in all respects, as to the danger from fire, with that required for Insurance on the buildings themselves.

2. A description of the kinds and nature of the goods, whether in casks or other packages, or opened; and whether displayed in whole pieces or in the usual form for retailing. And if the goods vary materially in kind, a general estimate of the value of each kind proposed to be insured; but in the last particular minuteness of description is not expected.

3. Articles of the following kinds are deemed extra-hazardous, though in various degrees, in whatever building they may be placed, viz. pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, wax, tallow, oil, inflammable spirits, sulphur, hemp, flax, cotton, dry goods of an inflammable kind, opened.—Glass, china ware or procelain, especially unpacked; Looking glasses, jewelery; and all other articles more than commonly inflammable, or more than commonly liable to injury by sudden removal or by moistures, or particularly obnoxious to theft on an alarm of fire.

Letters post paid, directed to the Secretary of the Board of Directors, will be duly attended to. An order for Insurance accompanied by the means of paying the premium, will be immediately executed on the premium being paid. If the application contain an enquiry only, is will be answered.

By order of the Board,

Ebenezer Hazard, sec'ry.

Office of the Insurance Company of North America; Philad. Feb. 1, 1798.

From the New York Gazette and General Advertiser.

The Anti-Revolutionist,
No. III.

To the Federalists of New York.

BRETHREN AND FRIENDS,

I NOW hear it every where repeated, that you are exerting yourselves as becomes you.—The meetings in your wards are frequent, numerous, and respectable; and your measures are taken with that prudence and firmness, which are the certain pledges of success—It needs but this—go on as you have begun, and you may triumph in the full anticipation of victory.—I have often said, and I repeat, that your indolence and inattention, your want of concert and of firmness, have nursed among us the accursed spirit of faction, and nothing but the united and continual exertions of all good men, can now conquer it.

Would to heaven, fellow-citizens, that I were able to impress upon your minds, with due force, the powerful considerations which, at this time, so urgently require the exertion of your best and utmost efforts.—This is not a petty contest for party preeminence.—It involves consequences of the greatest moment to your government and country, and to every individual.—It is STILL a question whether you are to be tributary to France.—The activity—the wickedness—the audacity of her partizans—and the success that has attended their measures in every country which they have attacked in the same way—OUGHT TO INSPIRE IN YOUR MINDS A DEEP AND SALUTARY TERROR.—It is still a question whether the government of your choice shall give way to a Directory composed of the citizens Gallatin, Jefferson, and Burr—Whether the Livingstons, the Genets, the Dallases, and the Lyons, shall be commissaries of the Executive power, and receivers of the contributions—Whether the guillotine shall be made permanent at the Coffee-house—Whether French soldiers, with bayonets and swords, shall drive you like cattle to the elections—and whether you shall sink under a load of contribution mercilesly exacted by a foreign soldiery.

Fellow Citizens!

There is no colouring nor fancy in this*. The things I have alluded to, are simple facts, now existing in all countries, where the French rule.—I here make the direct and unequivocal assertion, that the party in this country, which is headed by Jefferson, Gallatin, and the other French, by Burr, the Livingstons, and De Witt Clinton, are pursuing the same measures which have led those countries to ruin.—If you wish for examples of this, I cite their efforts to elect men always zealously attached to the French cause—their efforts to benumb the government, and prevent the adoption of effectual measures for self-defence†—the concert of opinion and measures which has always existed between the French government and their party here—The employment of French spies‡—The Democratic Societies—The existence and the outrages of United Irishmen—The correspondence of Talleyrand with Genet, and the embassy of Logan from Jefferson to the Directory.

Fellow Citizens!

I never think of the unceasing assiduity—the fell malice—the wickedness and the untameable malignity of this faction, without shivering for fear. All Jacobins are irreclaimable and incurable. You can make no peace nor truce with them. The war that they wage against virtue, laws, order, and especially against free governments, is a "WAR UNTO DEATH,"—They are never discouraged by a defeat—never abashed by the detection of their falsehoods,‖ for they well know that new tales of grief can inflame the popular mind, and new misrepresentations keep jealousy rankling,—These people are ever active and vigilant—They take all their measures by concert, and never lose an advantage.—They meet in secret and unfrequented—They gather strength from falsehood, fraud and treachery. If the public odium overwhelm them in one form, they reappear in another—and if defeated in open combat, they may sink for a while, but they rise again like Antæus, renewed and vigorous after every fall.—Against such an enemy nothing can prevail but a union of honest men. Private interests and concerns must be neglected for the moment—All friends to the country must come forth—they must exert themselves personally and continually during the elections—There is too much reason to fear that if defeated now, your friends will despair of the cause, and the yoke of your enemies be rivetted on your necks.

The danger of disunion is one against which I wish particularly to guard you.—Men of independent sentiments are too apt, on account of private opinions or caprices to vary from the general ticket—This is of dangerous consequence— he public mind has been fairly taken on the Canditates, and as it cannot be expected that any one ticket should prefectly meet the wishes of every individual, small sacrifices of private preference must be made for the sake of the general object. In this crisis, every division respecting the merits of particular Federalists is like disputing about peace while your house is on fire—Let your exertions be united—all must act together and to one end, or your efforts will be lost—and you will be conquered and revolutionized—Your enemies grow impudent from your divisions and indolence—but they will shrink away with shame, when the great mass of our worthy and respectable citizens shall appear against them—LET ALL HONEST MEN UNITE IN A PHALANX—let them march together and attack the Demon of Revolution—their very look will confound the monster, and their onset will annihilate him.

There is, I am informed, a Frenchman in town of the name of Morge or Morgue, who is the son of a man in the confidence of the directory, and who has no visible business in this country. He dresses in the American manner, and would not be suspected as a Frenchman from his apparel.

I know a Democrat who had lived at Edinburgh, and spoke familiarly of the French Spies that he knew, who had resided for years in Scotland. He gave me some particulars of the methods they took to avoid being detected, and to make their communications.

Men who despise all religion, and whose lives are in continued hostility to virtue, very naturally contemn its divine institutions. It is consolatory, however to the real Christian to observe, that notwithstanding the repeated and artful attempts which have been made to propagate the principles of a ruinous infidelity, the advocates for the doctrines of revelation and truth, in our country, are still numerous and powerful; and especially, that those to whose wisdom is entrusted the superintendance of our public concerns are not ashamed to acknowledge the atributes of Deity, or to adore the goodness of Providence. By their high example they are leading the people to righteousness, without which a nation can never be truly exalted happy or prosperous.

A whole nation assembling in one day for the solemn exercises of devotion, is, to the benevolent mind, a spectacle far more magnificent and interesting than the proudest pageant which royal equipage affords.—In the contemplation of such a scene, the mind is transfixed by the sublimity of the subject; and the soul, gladdened with the prospect, dissolves into pious extacy.—Such a scene last Thursday was exhibited.

BALTIMORE, April 26.

A gentleman at Oporto, in a letter to his friend in this city, earnestly recommends it to our government to send two or three stout vessels of not less than 18 guns, to be stationed at Corunna, for the protection of our trade—one of them to be always in sight of the harbor, the others constantly ranging the coast from thence to Vigo, as the former is the grand rendezvous for French privateers, the latter occasionally.

The scene of devotion which was yesterday exhibited by this city, is a convincing proof of the high respect which our citizens entertain for the chief magistrate of the union; and how essential they deem it at this time to assemble together, in the most devout manner to offer up prayers to the almighty ruler of nations, for unanimity and concord, for an increase of virtue and religion, and for the help of his powerful hand in defending our lives, liberty and property against the machinations and violence of an abandoned nation of Atheists and plunderers.

* In 1794, some of our Jacobins openly asserted, that the guillotine ought to be made PERMANENT. When the French formed their new constitution, and while Washington was President, they as openly cried out for a Directory of THREE. The elections of last Germinal, were conducted in France under the direction of the military. A year since, the poor people of Holland were nearly stripped of the means of subsistence, and since that, several new contributions have been laid. Flanders pays DOUBLE TAXES, both as a conquered country, and as part of the Republic.

† Similar efforts were successfully used by their party in Holland and Switzerland.

‡ The infamous Edward Griswold, who left this country for a well known crime, has since lived in the enjoyment of fortune, in France, and is said to be married to a niece of one of the Directory. Last summer he returned to this country under the pretence of "taking care of his new lands." Soon after his return, he took a journey into the country, and was entertained at Chancellor Livingston's, where I have reason to believe, he changed his horse and chair, and put on a dress, which in a great measure, amounted to a disguise. I will endeavor to investigate this fact further, and lay it before the public. It is certain, however, that he was seen in the address and equipage I allude to at Claverack, preaching sedition among ignorant people.

‖ In Washington county the people were taught to believe, that Mr. Jay had bought up all the quit-rents in England, and had set Mr. Jones to collect them for his private benefit. This story was boasted of as a skilful invention by Mr. Tillotson of the Senate, a brother in law of chancellor Livingston. Citizen Kettletas, on a late election, being sent into the country to disperse some hand bills, was met by a gentleman who remarked to him, that the falsehood of what he was dispersing, would soon be detected—No matter said the citizen,—"it will have its effect first." In Orange county the people were taught to believe that Mr. Jay had brought the stamp act from England in his pocket, and that they must bring their title deeds to N York to be stamped or forfeit their farms—On the Mohawk river many of the people, finding that they have no stamp duties to pay, lately believed, and, perhaps; still believe, that their opposition has forced Congress to repeal the law. I was told by one of the assessors, that a man whose house-tax would amount to two or three dollars, was almost rendered desperate by being told, that he should have to pay 60. I have reason to believe that his informant was one of the Livingstons.

CHARLESTON, April 12.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in London, to his friend in this city.

"The great nation are making, at present, more havoc among the American ships than they have ever yet done, and unless the American government can give their commerce some protection to Europe, there will scarcely be a ship left to bring the produce to market. I am very certain that these last ten days, the privateers out of France, have captured ten millions of dollars, bona fide American property, bound to different ports in Europe."

Extract of a letter from a young gentleman in Paris to his friend in this city, dated

PARIS, OCT. 8, 1798.

"From a splendid city, filled with Roman antiquities and modern curiosities, ornamented with superb palaces and beautiful gardens, enriched with the spoils of Flanders and Italy, you doubtless will conclude, that there is abundant matter for composition—there is; but a head is wanting more free from anxiety than that of your friend's. In viewing the magnificence of Paris, the mind of the stranger is struck with a horrid sensation, at the unheard-of vices of its inhabitants. This nation, known for many centuries to be the most volatile of any in existence, have in some measure been restrained by religion; but now that restraint exists no longer; passion riots in the most licentious diforder; morality is laughed at; and crimes the most destructive to virtue and domestic happiness, are permitted with impunity.

"At the celebration of the new year, all the feasts were exhibited, which you have read in ancient history, of the Olympic games. Two or three hundred thousand people were assembled in the Champ de Mars; in a superb gallery sat the directory and the rest of the government, dressed in all the magnificence of oriental pomposity. Nothing but a throne was wanting for the directors, to give them the appearance of what they really are.

"At this exhibition I was placed by accident near the heads of government, and viewed with ease the transactions of the Champ de Mars.

"One misfortune took place, which was the wounding very badly of a man who was running in one of the cars; his adversary force his horses, and drove against him with such violence as to overthrow and break his car to pieces; and to do honor to the ladies of France, I must say that they discovered a different sensation from what I have seen in Spain at the death of a man."

NEW-YORK, April 29.

Extract of a letter from Thomas G. Carver, to his friend in New-York, dated Havanna, April 1.

"I have to give you the melancholy account of the capture of the ship Ocean, capt. Kemp, of New-York, who was taken a few days since, some leagues distant from the Matanzas, by four French privateers, who, after an obstinate engagement, boarded her and massacred all hands but five. These pirates, since the American squadron have been on this station, rendezvous at an Island or Key, about five or six leagues to windward of Punto de Jaco, or Point Jacko, on this Island, where they have upwards of 40 pieces of Cannon, and between 2 and 300 men landed.

"Strong remonstrances have been made to this government by Mr. Yznardi, the American agent, (with whom I stay) but as yet, nothing has been done."

At the anniversary meeting of the society of the Sons of St. George, held at the Tontine Coffee House, on Tuesday, the following toasts were drank:

Yesterday arrived the armed brig Integrity, in 32 days from Surrinam.

A gentleman who came passenger in her, inform us, that four Spanish frigates with 600 German troops, (80 of whom died after their arrival,) in the service of Spain, arrived at Surrinam from Cadiz, and that a squadron of 3 Dutch frigates and a schooner, sailed from thence, their destination unknown.

The Integrity sailed in company with a large fleet of Americans, a number of them armed vessels, under convoy of the sloop of war, Portsmouth.

MARRIED]—Last Evening, by the Rev. Mr. Abercrombie, Mr. WILLIAM PHILLIPS, merchant, to Miss ANNA SMITH, daughter of Thomas W. Smith, Esq. of this city.

EXTRACT.

"Whether you examine the French in their houses or in public, you are every where stricken with the same want of delicacy, propriety and cleanliness. The streets are mostly so filthy, that it is perilous to approach the walls. The insides of the churches are often disgusting, in spite of the advertisements that are placed in them to request the forbearance of phthisical persons; the service does not prevent those who attend from going to and fro with the same irreverence as if the church were empty, and, in the most solemn part of the mass, a woman is suffered to importune you for a liard as the price of the chair you sit on. At the theatres an actor or actress frequently coughs and expectorates on the stage, in a manner one should think highly unpardonable before one's most intimate friends in England, though this habit is very common to all the French. The inns abound with filth of every kind, and though the owners of them are generally civil enough, their notions of what is decent are so very different from ours, that an English traveller is not soon reconciled to them. In short, it would be impossible to enumerate all that in my opinion excludes the French from the character of a well-bred people.—Swift, who seems to have been gratified by the contemplation of physical impurity, might have done the subject justice; but I confess I am not displeased to feel that, after my long and frequent residences in France, I am still unqualified. So little are these people susceptible of delicacy, propriety and decency, that they do not even use the words in the sense we do, nor have they any others expressive of the same meaning.—But if they are deficient in the external forms of politeness, they are infinitely more so in that politeness which may be called mental. The simple and unerring rule of never preferring one's self, is to them more difficult of comprehension than the most difficult problem in Euclid: in small things as well as great, their own interest, their own gratification, is their leading principle; and the cold flexibility which enables them to clothe this selfish system in "fair forms," is what they call "politeness."

In America, says the elegant editor of the Walpole Museum, the conductor of a paper is viewed as a mere subaltern in society; and with great justice, for he is generally, an illiterate, mercenary, blind groundling, ignorant of the lowest elements of taste and science. In Europe, the case is intirely different. The editor of a paper holds a high rank, and claims and receives distinguished consideration. For he is, as he ever ought to be, a man of letters, and a gentleman. In France, under the old government, learned ecclesiastics, abbes, and characters of that class distinguished by the terms of "Gens du Robe," and "Gens des Lettres." had the guidance of the weekly or daily sheet. In Germany, learned booksellers, professors in the universities and eminent authors superintend the press, and in England and Scotland, men of the most shining talents, and of the most extensive erudition are invariably employed for this very arduous and responsible task. In short, an editor abroad, is a qualified person, selected from the literary choir, and respected as a liberal scholar and a correct gentleman. An editor here, with the exception of a few, whose talents we ever have acknowledged, and always delight to honor, is an animal, who would be much more advantageously employed as a scavenger, a tinker, or a night-man, than in filling four folio pages, with the spoils of his awkward thefts, or the lame effusions of rickety brains.

STATE LETTER.

The following is an authentic translation of a letter, which cannot be uninteresting to the public; it confirms however, but too fully, that the Neapolitan dominions were in great internal distress previous to the important victory of the Nile, and that the rulers of that devoted country had speculated farther upon the consequences of that victory, than subsequent events seem to have justified.

"Translation of a letter from the Queen of Naples to the Marquis Circello, Neapolitan Ambassador at London.

(COPY.)

"I write to you with joy inexpressible! The brave and enterprising British Admiral, NELSON, has obtained a signal and decisive victory: my heart would fain give wings to the courier who is the bearer of these propitious tidings, to facilitate the earliest acknowledgment of our gratitude. Italy is safe on its shores, and is indebted for that safety to the naval valor of the British! This action, or more correctly speaking, this total discomfiture of the regicide fleet, is ascribable to the intrepid valor of the British admiral, aided by a squadron which might well have been the terror of its opponents. So extensive is this victory in all its relative consequences, that was it not that the world has been accustomed to see prodigies of glory atchieved by the British on the seas, I should almost question the reality of this event; it has produced among us a general spirit of enthusiasm! It would have moved you much, to see my infant boys and girls hanging round my neck in tears, expressing their little joy at the happy tidings, made doubly dear to us by the critical period at which they arrived! Most of the specie of the country has disappeared, through the fears of individuals, and the restless intrigue of the republicans; and no one is found endued with firmness and patriotism sufficient to recal it into circulation; this has occasioned considerable discontents. The republicans have distressed us by a variety of machinations, which pervade the once most happy and delightful of countries, Italy! Many disaffected persons here, thinking the crisis for revolt arrived, began to throw off the mask; but the news of the defeat of Buonaparte's Egyptian fleet, who, it may be hoped, will perish with his army, has made these men less daring and considerably improved the prospect of general good. If the Emperor will but move with a prompt activity, all Italy may yet be saved. We are emulous to render ourselves worthy the alliance and friendship of the great defenders of our Seas!

"Make my highest respects acceptable to their majesties of England and my best regards to Lord Grenville, Mr. Pitt, and Lord Spencer, who presides so honorably over the heroic British Maaine. Pay them our warmest acknowledgment for the aid of so powerful a fleet; inform them that we rejoice in the splendid victory it has obtained, as much for the honor they have gained as our own advantage in the glorious event; assure them of my profound gratitude.

"I trust, that, from the instructions you received by the last dispatches, the means of our security will be farther improved, and that by well concerted measures, we shall be enabled to protect Italy, and to afford those advantages to our generous defender, which will still more firmly unite us. The gallant Nelson is badly wounded, but it offends the delicacy of his mind when it is mentioned.—Recommend this naval hero to his royal master. He has raised in the Italians an enthusiastic reverence for the British nation; great expectations were naturally founded on his enterprizing talents, but no one could look for so total an overthrow of the enemy. All here are frantic with excess of joy!"

From the Bristol Journal of Feb. 23.

We hear that a convoy destined for the protection of the spring fleet to the United States of America, is appointed to sail 48 hours after the 8th of next month, if the wind be fair, and will have instructions to call off Cork, to take under its care the ships that may be assembled there.

DARING OUTRAGE.

On Sunday last, Edward and Joseph Webb, confined on a charge of Swindling, J. R. M'Mahon, under sentence of the Mayor's Court, for challenging and assaulting Mr. Brown, and a Negro, imprisoned for larceny, made a joint attempt to break from the criminal prison of this city, and had actually got through the floor into the dungeon, whence they intended to escape by undermining the walls. They were discovered by the keeper, and separately imprisoned in the cells.

The following extract (comprising a beautiful paraphrase of Milton's Morning Hymn) is taken from an elegant Poem, first published in a British periodical paper, called the Anti-Jacobin, and lately re-published in Mr. DAVIES's Monthly Magazine.

"Ere long perhaps, to this astonished isle,
Fresh from the shores of subjugated Nile,
Shall Buonaparte's victor fleet protect
The genuine Theo-Philanthropic sect—
The sect of Marat, Mirabeau, Voltaire,
Led by their pontiff, good La Reveilliere.
Rejoic'd our clubs shall greet him, and instal
The holy hunch-back in thy dome, St. Paul,
While countless votaries thronging in his train
Wave their red caps, and hymn this jocund strain;

"Couriers and Stars, sedition's evening host,
"Thou Morning Chronicle and Morning Post,
"Whether you make the Rights of Man your theme,
"Your country libel, and your God blaspheme,
"Or dirt on private worth and virtue throw,
"Still, blasphemous or blackguard, praise Lepaux.
"And ye five other wandering bards that move
"In sweet accord of harmony and love,
"Coleridge and Southey, Loyd, and Lambe and Co.
"Tune all your mystic harps to praise Lepaux!
"Priestly and Wakefield, humble, holy men,
"Give praises to his name with tongue and pen!
"Thalwell, and ye that lecture as ye go,
"And for your pains get pelted, praise Lepaux!
"Praise him each jacobin, or fool, or knave,
"And your cropp'd heads in lieu of worship wave!
"All creeping creatures, venemous and low,
"Paine, Williams, Godwin, Holcroft—praise Lepaux!
"And thou leviathan! on ocean's brim
"Hugest of living things that sleep and swim;
"Thou in whose nose by Providence's organic hand
"The hook was fix'd to drag thee to the land,
"With Tierney, Fox, and Nicholls in thy train,
"And Whitebread wallowing in the yeasty main,
"Still as you snort, and puff, and spout, and blow,
"In puffing, and in spouting, praise Lepaux!"

Britain Beware; nor let the insidious foe,
Of force despairing, aim a deadly blow.
Thy peace, thy strength, with dev'lish wiles assail,
And when her arms are vain, by arts prevail.
True, thou art rich, art powerful—thro' thine isle
Industrious skill, contented labour, smile—
Far seas are studded with thy countless sails—
What wind but wafts them, and what shore but hails?
True, thou art brave—throughout thy busy land
In patriot ranks embattled myriads stand!
Thy foes behold with impotent amaze,
And drop the lifted weapon as they gaze.
But what avails to guard each outward part,
If subtle poison, circling at her heart,
Spite of thy courage, of thy pow'r, and wealth,
Mine the sound fabric of thy vital health?
So thine own oak, by some fair streamlet's side
Waves its broad arms, and spreads its leafy pride,
Shades the green earth, and tow'ring to the skies,
In conscious strength, the tempest's wrath defies.
The fowls of Heav'n its ample branches share,
To its cool shade the panting herds repair;
The limpid current works its noiseless way;
The fibres loosen, and the roots decay.
Prostrate the mighty ruin lies; and all
That shared it shelter, perish in its fall.

O thou, lamented sage, whose prescient scan
Laid bare foul anarchy's gigantic plan;
Prompt to incred'lous hearers to disclose
The guilt of France, and Europe's world of woes;
Thou, on whose name far distant time shall gaze,
The mighty sea-mark of those troubled days,
O large of soul, of genius unconfin'd,
Born to delight, instruct, and mend mankind;
Burke! in whose breast a Roman ardor glow'd,
Whose copious tongue with Grecian richness flow'd
Well hast thou found (if such thy country's doom)
A timely refuge in the sheltering tomb.
As in far realms beneath the cypress shade,
Where eastern kings in pomp of death are laid,
The perfum'd lamp with unextinguished light
Flames thro' the vault, and cheers the gloom of night;
So mighty Burke! in thy sepulchral urn
To fancy's view the lamp of truth shall burn.
Thither late times shall turn their rev'rent eyes,
Led by thy light, and by thy wisdom wise.
